Monterey State Historic Park Offers Stories of Romance

MONTEREY -- Monterey State Historic Park will offer four stories of love and affection on Saturday, February 12 in "A Day of Romance in Old Monterey" special event.

Docents will lead guests inside the Cooper-Molera Adobe, Larkin House, Diaz Adobe, and for the first time in four years, the Stevenson House. Once inside each house, living history characters dressed in nineteenth century clothing will re-enact a unique historical romance story.

Tours depart every half-hour, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. (except 12:30). All tours take approximately two hours, beginning at the Cooper-Molera Adobe (525 Polk Street), and concluding in the Cooper-Molera barn for tea and light refreshments, and costumed re-enactors performing dances from the 1840s.

Tickets are available at the Cooper Museum Store (Phone: 831-649-7111), located at the corner of Polk, Munras and Alvarado streets in downtown Monterey.

Tickets are limited due to the limited seating space inside the historic homes. The ticket price for the four romance plays is $15. For more information, including ordering tickets by mail, call (831) 647-6226.
